RECOMMENDATION

The main issue I can see isn't how much electricity you're using, but the price you're paying for it. Your average usage is only 7.92 kWh per day, but Origin is charging you 41.31c/kWh, which is quite high.

Of the three plans compared, Tango Everyday Easy works out the cheapest. Based on your usage, your bill would drop from $366.67 to approximately $292.74, saving you $73.93 over the same 86-day period, or around $314 annually if your usage stays similar.

Although Tango has a higher daily supply charge, it's cheaper electricity rate more than makes up for it. Your current plan has no demand charges, so there's no need to complicate things with a different tariff structure. I'd recommend switching to Tango, but confirm their latest rates before making the change.

If you're unsure about these options, it's worth comparing other energy providers as well. Simply enter your address or postcode on their websites to see what other offers are available in your area.

Best move: Switch to Tango Everyday Easy for lower overall electricity costs.
